MY CHILDREN
I am wondering if every mother's heart
Is as full of love as mine?
But my love is great,
For my children number ten.
In years past I wonder
How we ever struggled through,
For our troubles, they were many,
And our joys were but few.
Only our little children
To comfort us in our sorrow,
And to listen to our stories
Of old Santa's sleigh chimneys.
His rosy cheeks and shining eyes,
God took him home less than two years.
Then two more boys came,
To gladden our humble home.
Then two bright-eyed little girls,
With pretty brown curls that shone.
Then another boy and another girl,
Then three more boys so fine.
This was our family of children,
Who were happy all the time.
And by my side every night,
Each one would kneel in prayer,
And with a kiss and a sweet good night,
They would climb the winding stairs.
As each one grew up,
And went out for himself alone,
I hoped and prayed with a mother's love,
Each might as I say.
But now they are all married
And have families of their own,
Except one boy who lives at home,
To brighten up our home.
And on Thanksgiving and Christmas,
Our children gather here,
To cheer us on these holidays.
And Sunday we are through,
Our life has been hard, but God has been good.
He gave us these treasures, dear,
And I hope each one is thinking of home
Tonight as I'm sitting here.
Dad and I have both lost our parents,
And to one who knew that pain,
We have suffered in losing these dear ones,
Never to see them again.
Loving our dear little boy
Was almost more than we could bear,
But we know our dearest is happy
With God away from here.
—MRS. GRANT McALLISTER, Fryeburg.

JESUS' BIRTHDAY
As we come again to the Christmas days,
Let us humbly turn in our thoughts
To the blessed life which Jesus lived,
And the blessed truths which he taught.
Let us ponder his words and teachings,
With a prayer to learn how to give
Unto all, the same sweet love and life,
Which Jesus loved and lived.
For to honor right Jesus' birthday,
As he lived, we must learn to live;
A life of love which leads and saves.
Is the gift we all must give.
But we can give more humbly receive
The truth which Jesus taught.
The truth which he said shall make us free,
Must first be clothed in thought.
We must ponder and earnestly seek to find
Love and truth; there is no other way.
But the way, the truth, and the life of him,
Whom we honor on Christmas day.
—MRS. LENA H. FARRAR.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS
"If you put a little loving into all the work you do,
And a little bit of gladness, and a little bit of
And a little bit of sweetness, and a little bit of
No day will seem too long; not a day
Will seem too long."

You don't need a chimney sweep to clean the soot from the chimney—all you need is common salt. The fire should first be put in good condition with a substance that bed of hot fuel on top, and about a pound of dry salt sprinkled on the fire close to the furnace door. Shut the door and open all the dampers so the fire will burn as rapidly as the draft permits. Keep the dampers wide open until the fumes have disappeared, about a half hour. Exceptionally heavy deposits of soot may require an additional dose of salt.

Sea Beasts Try Teeth
On Telegraph Cables

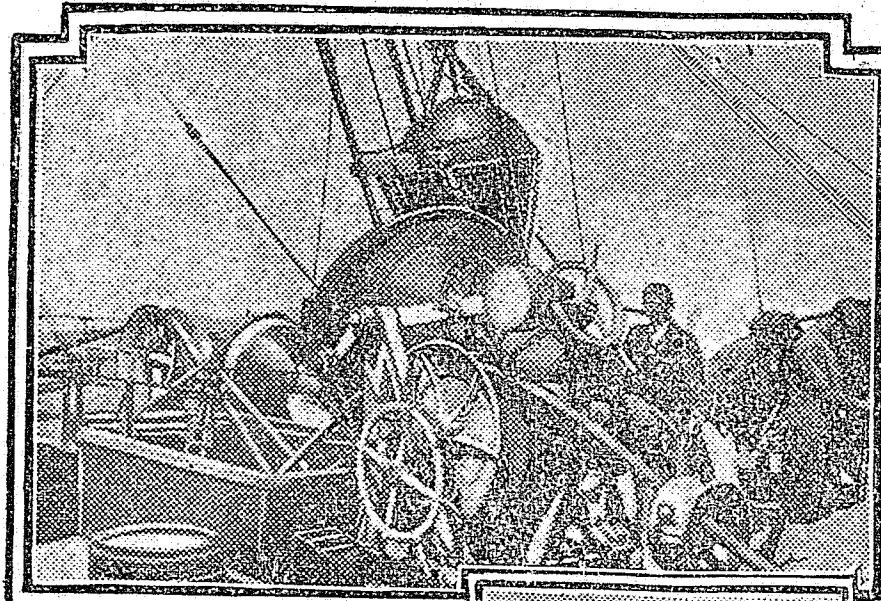

Repair Expeditions Discover
Queer Happenings Along
Floor of Ocean

A COMPACT little steamer, its deck a mass of giant buoys and curious mechanism, rattles through a howling February gale toward a little dot on the chart, miles at sea—a dot that gives, with amazing accuracy, the location of any interruption to telegraph cable service. At that exact point, say the electricians ashore, something has happened to cause a "fault." Sea water has penetrated to the core of the cable, and the damage must be repaired immediately.

The ship reaches the indicated latitude and longitude. Down go the grapnels, and in surprisingly quick time, up comes the cable. Soon the ship has established communication with shore. The damaged section is located, a new piece spliced in, and once more the hurried whippers of commerce are speeding along the bottom of the sea. But the cause of all this trouble on a cable costing millions of dollars is an insignificant little creature, sometimes in tropical waters. Sharks, too, seem to resent the invasion of their waters by the cables, and their broken teeth, penetrating to the copper conductor, heat mute testimony to their irritation.

Another time it may be a sword-fish who has tried his snout on the interminable snake-like strand that finds in his path. Such a thing happens, sometimes, in tropical waters. Sharks, too, seem to resent the invasion of their waters by the cables, and their broken teeth, penetrating to the copper conductor, heat mute testimony to their irritation.

The fact that such things do happen makes it essential that the route of a cable be charted with the greatest possible accuracy.

Some of the intricate machinery on deck of the cable ship, used in picking up and repairing cables.

That is one of the most important functions of the cable-laying ship. In the case of a cable just laid by a Western Union Telegraph Company, between Newfoundland and the Azores, every foot of the route has been charted, every variation of bottom contour noted, even the exact temperatures of the surface of the water and at the bottom of the sea recorded. If trouble occurs, there will be no groping for the indicated location, as might be the case with some of the older cables. This new cable has the largest message capacity of any in the world, and it has been laid with an exactness that has never been approached before.

Perhaps the queerest story in all the annals of cable ships is the one about the whale that entangled himself in a cable off Alaska. It was winter, and the repair was delayed for weeks. Finally, when the cable was raised to the surface, up came the whale, quite obviously and odorously dead, with several turns of the cable wrapped around his lower jaw in some way, and in an effort to extricate himself had become hopelessly ensnared.

Bessie Andrews from Bridgton is visiting a few days at Susie Wilson's. Elizabeth Eastman has been sick and under the care of a doctor.

Japanese Laundry Work
Much of the washing of garments in Japan is done out of doors with plenty of cold water and no soap. Cotton garments are hung up on bamboo poles passed through the armpoles, and are pulled smooth and straight before they dry. Usually silk garments are taken to pieces before washing, are smoothed out on a long board while the sun, then are set up on the board in the sun to dry. Ironing is unnecessary.

York Minster Bells
At a recent special service in York Minster, England, the famous bells of the cathedral which had been recast and hung were rededicated. All the bells, previously a peal of 12, cast in 1840, have been recast with additional metal, and a new semi-tone bell has been added between the sixth and seventh, this completing the middle ring of eight in E flat. The peal now consists of 13 bells, with the largest, or tenor, bell weighing three tons, and is said to be one of the finest peals in England. In addition, there is Big Peter, weighing nearly 11 tons, the third largest in the country, the larger being Big Paul and Big Ben.

Kissing Discovered Early
A young Cretan fondly embracing a pretty maid who shyly rests her head on his shoulder is sculptured on a vase recently exhumed on that Greek island. It proves that kissing was a popular pastime 15 centuries before Christ and that modern shells and flappers could teach the Cretans nothing about the "soul kiss." Ages ago the Cretan civilization was buried on this island—perhaps by an earthquake. Now excavations are bringing to light many evidences of the joys, sorrows and loves of the domestic and social life of its ancient inhabitants. They were people much like us.—Capper's Weekly.

Source of Quinine
Ginchona or chinchona is the name of the tree from the bark of which is prepared the valuable medicine called quinine. The tree is a native of South America, growing best on the moist eastern slope of the Andes mountains, but it has been successfully introduced into India, Burma, Ceylon and the West Indies. The bark of this tree is called Peruvian bark, because it was in Peru that the Spaniards first learned of its medicinal properties. It is also known as cinchona bark, and from it quinine is obtained, which in the form of sulphate of quinine has a wide use in the practice of medicine.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanderson and daughter called at her father's, Sunday night.

I'M LONELY SINCE MY MOTHER DIED
I'm lonely since my mother died,
The friends and kindred gathered near,
I can not check the stirring sigh,
Or stay the silent heart-felt tear.

Oh, earthly love she was the best,
My ever youthful faith to guide,
I do not smile because I weep,
I'm lonely since my mother died.

Chorus
I'm lonely since my mother died,
The friends and kindred gathered near,
I can not check the stirring sigh,
Or stay the silent heart-felt tear.

You may not deem it brave or strong
To let the tears so often flow,
Can tell the pain of a mother's love
Could I but feel her back again.

But those who love her best will know,
I'd love her better than before,
I'm lonely since my mother died.

Chorus
Oh, you who have a mother dear,
Do not let a word or an act give her pain,
But cherish love her likes again,
You'll never have her like again.

Turn when you have your life's duty,
Across death's dark and troubled river,
In pain with me you need not say
I'm lonely since my mother died.

THE MARKET DATA HANDBOOK OF NEW ENGLAND

New England business men now have at their disposal a comprehensive handbook of the New England market which properly used is of the utmost importance in developing increased commercial and industrial activity, in connection with the publication of the "Market Data Handbook of New England" by the United States Department of Commerce.

The studies on which the "Market Data Handbook" is based were begun three years ago at the instance of the New England Council, all-New England developed organization, and were carried to completion by the Department of Commerce in co-operation with the Council. This New England market survey was one of the first projects initiated by the Council following its organization in 1925. It is believed the Department of Commerce survey will stimulate New England producers to more aggressive selling in the economical market provided by New England's eight million population.

"There is ample evidence that business interests outside New England are ready to put this new analysis of the New England market to practical use immediately," the Council's statement said, "and the New England Council is eager that New England business men, for whose information the studies were primarily instituted, shall make equally effective use of them."

Sales managers, advertising men, and every executive interested in promoting more sales, will find in this volume complete, accurate and up to date information regarding the market or trading areas of the New England states, it was pointed out. "The market data is presented for the first time on a township basis and for the entire area while not only to the national distributor, but to the local manufacturer and distributor, whose operations are confined to one or more sections of the New England market," the statement continued.

"Local manufacturers serving a part or all of the New England market will find complete data by town," the Council points out. "Wholesalers will find the boundaries of 112 retail trading areas clearly defined with complete data by towns in each area. The data listed for each New England town includes population factors, wealth factors, standard of living factors, and trade outlets. Included under wealth factors are statistics of bank deposits and income tax returns. Standard of living factors include data on houses owned and rented, residences, homes using electricity, homes using gas, average new car sales, for three price classes, and magazine circulation, for two classes. Trade outlets show the number of wholesale establishments in the grocery, builders' material, hardware, lumber, drug, paper and dry goods trades, and the number of retail establishments in the grocery, automobile accessory and supply hardware, men's clothing, drug, department store, and furniture trades.

"The volume also includes official railroad and automobile route maps of New England which the distributor will find useful in the determination of salesmen's routes. Wholesale and retail distribution centers are clearly indicated."

The handbook, one of three volumes comprising the commercial survey of New England, may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

GROW GOOD PULLETS

H. L. Richardson, extension poultry specialist, has received a letter from Dr. Leon S. Merrill, Dean of the College of Agriculture, Oregon, concerning the Grow Good Pullets program which is soon to be started in cooperation with the leading poultrymen in the state. The letter follows: "Dear Mr. Richardson: I am greatly interested in the Grow Good Pullets Campaign about to be started under your direction by the Extension Service. Its purpose: To encourage the growing of healthy, well developed, and high producing pullets is a worthy one. It should and I believe will receive the endorsement and support not only of practical poultrymen, but also of agricultural organizations and agencies of the State. I am glad to see that this campaign has the unqualified approval and support of the College of Agriculture."

This project, sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service and directed by Mr. Richardson has for its purpose to aid farmers in the state in replacing their flock with healthy, well developed pullets. The points or practices recommended in the project are as follows:

- (1) Hatch all chicks before May 1.
- (2) Secure chicks from Pullorum disease free stock, for instance, Bacillary White Diarrhea.
- (3) Feed all grain to growing chicks from hoppers.
- (4) Brood on wire by providing the brooder house with a wire sun porch or wire floors.
- (5) Avoid crowding by having not over 300 chicks under one hen and not over 400 chicks per acre on the range.
- (6) Range chicks on clean land, i. e., where no chicks have been for one or more years.
- (7) Use range shelters to house growing stock while on the range.

MR. WILEY'S BELIEF HOLDS GOOD

Editor L. P. Evans of the Dover-Foxcroft Observer says:

"Avoid drafts, while automobile driving, especially from a narrow current of air coming through the windshield. Such drafts have been known to cause a facial paralysis."

The foregoing clipped from an exchange reminded me of a time when the late James S. Wiley came into the private office where I was employed, and when he felt a draft from a window that was down at the top he put it up lest he should get injury from it.

He justified his action by explaining the working of a draft of cold air. A person, he said, can stand or sit in the wind and not suffer more than the immediate discomfort, but let a draft strike a portion of the body trouble is likely to result. The human body is like a glass dish; if cold and plunged into hot water it will not break, but if a little hot water is poured into it it is likely to be broken.

AUTOMOBILES

An English maker of "baby" cars, with a six-foot-three inch wheelbase, is starting a factory to make them in America. American roads are now good enough to permit little cars like that to go almost anywhere except across the continent. There are still no through routes from the Atlantic to the Pacific which have not long stretches of dirt, almost impassable in bad weather. If these "baby" cars prove popular, American makers will imitate and improve on them. That is automobile history.

Automobiles were invented in Europe. Gasoline cars were in use there years before any were made in America. Europe had good roads to begin with; roads built to haul cannon over. But European people had to spend so much for cannon that they still have no money with which to buy motor cars, by comparison with America.

Cheap cars gave this country good roads. Perhaps the new "baby" cars will compel us to make all our roads perfect.

Father to dapper going out—Go back in there and wipe some of that paint off your face. You're liable to be mistaken for a stop light down town.

Work of Publicity Bureau For the State of Maine

Report Presented by the Manager, Harry B. Coe, at the Annual Meeting, Friday, December 13, 1929.

From all records available, it would appear that the year 1929 has been the most satisfactory in the operation of the State of Maine Publicity Bureau since it was organized in 1922, in the volume of business handled and financially as well.

This committee is made up of Charles H. Foss, of Houlton, chairman, D. W. Hoegs, of Portland, M. L. Harris, Portland, George M. Houghton, Bangor, Arthur G. Staples, Lewiston, and the manager has acted as secretary of the committee.

The committee, using the records kept by the Maine Publicity Bureau for the past eight years, drew up a schedule indicating what newspapers and magazines should be used and the dates that the advertising should appear, in accordance with the money available. There had been allocated to tourist advertising for 1929 by the Maine Development Commission, approximately $20,000. The schedule worked out by the Advisory Committee resulted in an expenditure of $18,512.95. The schedule as finally determined by the Maine Development Commission for their approval and the allocation of the required money from the $50,000 appropriated by the Legislature.

A similar meeting for the 1930 advertising was held in Portland, Tuesday, Dec. 3rd. Replies from tourist advertising received and handled by the Maine Publicity Bureau. Letters received from May 1 to Sept. 30, 1929, were 14,736 as compared with 11,748 during the corresponding period of 1928.

Representatives of the Bureau have attended various conferences having a bearing on our work, both in Maine and outside the State. We have given the usual number of talks on the work of this Bureau to clubs and community groups. We have broadcast over the radio stories of the work of this Bureau and of the attractions of Maine.

Many requests have been received for photographs and text matter for articles for magazines and newspapers. We have referred many of these to the Publicity Manager of the Maine Development Commission. Others we have handled direct from this office.

We have co-operated on the so-called billboard nuisance and unsightly signs along our highways. In connection with this we have contributed additional material to Kenneth L. Roberts for his very timely articles on this subject which have appeared in the Saturday Evening Post during 1929.

We have co-operated with the State Chamber of Commerce, the Associated Industries, the various State Departments, including the office of the Secretary of State, and the Executive Secretary of the Maine Development Commission in the elimination of duplication of service work. We have been very glad of the privilege of co-operating with Paul L. Bean of the Maine Development Commission in his survey of the recreational industry.

We have further cemented the very friendly relations which exist between this Bureau and the New Brunswick Government Bureau of Information and Tourist Travel under the direction of J. Douglas Black of Fredericton. For the past three years there has been an increasing tendency of tourist travel farther east and this was particularly noticeable during the season of 1929. We have exchanged with Mr. Black complete information regarding road conditions and other travel information which has many times resulted in routing people farther east than their original intentions would carry them. This is predicted on the proposition that whenever we direct travel into New Brunswick, it must of necessity travel the entire length of the State of Maine and added revenue be thus derived than if the traveler touches only the western borders over the routes which they would normally cover in returning to their western homes.

Because no enterprise, no matter how worthwhile, can function one hundred percent without the support of the press, it has been particularly gratifying to see how generous the newspapers of Maine have been.

Because our financial year ends December 31st, the treasurer, Ralph G. Libby, cannot make a detailed financial statement. He has, therefore, asked me to report that the managing of this Bureau has been carried on most satisfactorily for the year 1929. It was determined at the meeting held February 2, 1929, that we would not raise our money this year in combination with any other organization. The manager was requested by the Executive Committee to develop a plan for the raising of money with the least possible expense. This led to information received by him on his western trip, we have been able to collect the budget of $27,000 without employing outside assistance, the bulk of the money being raised by a series of letters written by the manager.

While the manager and the treasurer do not wish to convey the idea that it has been an easy job to raise the money this year, they are glad to say that they have received expressions of confidence in the work we are doing from a number of our subscribers many of whom have also said that they wished our work might be broadened so that it will be more comparable with what other sections of the country are doing and that they stood ready to help in any such movement.

The treasurer, Mr. Libby, is very glad to report that we will close the year with all bills paid, no loans out, and a satisfactory amount may be carried to a sinking fund.

That splendid friend of Maine, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, again showed his belief in our work by sending his annual subscription of $5,000. Accompanying the check was a brief letter endorsing our work and saying that he was particularly pleased to know that the money contributed by him would be used entirely to carry on the work for which it is intended.

The manager would like to see a plan worked out whereby a special campaign might be put on this coming season to raise double the amount of money, or approximately $50,000 a year extending over a three year period. This would give us about $25,000 to spend in Bureau advertising and publicity for the state, supplementing that done by the Maine Development Commission from the state appropriation.

We have mailed out this fall, 5,000 questionnaires to people who wrote us for information or signed our register during the past year. This list is made up from the 13,975 letters received and from the thousands of names on our register with a view of covering people in all walks of life, of varying incomes and coming from every state in the union, that we might get a proper cross country viewpoint. The purpose of this questionnaire, as you doubtless know, is to determine how much money tourists spend in Maine, where they spend it, and if they have any criticisms of service rendered by our Bureau, by hotels, transportation lines, etc., etc. Also to provide statistical information for use by Mr. Eickson of the Maine Development Commission, the New England Council and others in public addresses and reports. The replies are now coming in. They are most gratifying.

It is particularly interesting to see how willing people seem to be to give the detailed information asked of them, particularly how much they spend and where they spend it.

As soon as these replies are received and analyzed, a summary of this survey will be published. Meanwhile we would like to quote a few comments on what people think of the service we endeavor to give.

From Lexington, Mass.—"Information we received was quite sufficient and how nice it would be if other states did the same."

From Kansas City, Mo.—"It is the best information bureau in the country and needs no criticism."

From Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I intended mentioning in my own state (New York) but three different inquiries were ignored, so I casually inquired about a certain spot in Maine and you kindly sent me enough information that enabled me to arrive there within half an hour of the time I planned."

From Bloomfield, N. J.—"We in New Jersey can take a lesson from you in service and courtesy."

From Dayton, Ohio—"Can offer no suggestions, think this questionnaire is a wonderful follow-up system and shows continued interest in tourists' welfare."

From Norfolk, Va.—"None better. You've apparently adopted much of our southern hospitality."

From Turner Falls, Mass.—"In the two or three instances where I have had occasion to stop and make inquiry, I have always met the utmost courtesy and it never appears that the people in charge of this Bureau really love their job—at least this is the impression I have always secured. In stopping at your office last summer, I just inquired for a two day trip that might be worthwhile enroute home, and in a very few moments a pleasant program had been suggested, and all the information given me checked correctly with my experience. My compliments therefore to the service you are rendering the public."

Took Soda for Stomach for 20 Years

"For 20 years I took soda for indigestion and stomach gas. Then I tried Adlerika. One bottle brought complete relief."—Jno. B. Hardy.

Adlerika relieves GAS and sour stomach in TEN minutes! Acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, removing poisons, never known were there. Don't fool with medicine which cleans only PART of the bowels, but let Adlerika give stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel! L. V. Ashton, Druggist.

Merry Christmas

On a papyrus scroll estimated to date back 3,700 years before Christ, a man was found buried at the feet of a god Anubis, there were found remedies against painful diseases and a way to alleviate other troubles of the teeth by means of powdered drugs. The art of "filling" is very old. Egyptian mummies have been found with molar cavities very fully closed. Others have artificial teeth which show that in very ancient times this dental process was known. The Chinese carved teeth ache 2,700 years before Christ. One of their methods was to put resin in the cavities.

Music of the Desert

During the holy month of Ramadan, when the Muslimans fast only after sundown, the Sudanese revels awake the sleeping soldier at midnight. It is the voice of the desert itself, expressed by sons of the desert. The golden notes of muffled lutes rising in the silent night, and the swelling roll of the drums, are thrilling beyond description, because they are the vocal spirit of an intangible something that always touches the soul of man. The deep velvet sky, the glowing planets, the vastness and silence of the desert, the utter absence of distraction, make it a blending of perfect beauty; so perfect that one scarcely breathes for fear of breaking an illusion.—William A. Anderson in Adventure Magazine.

Inviting Crime

"Look here what I bought for that dog of Junior's," Mr. Burton announced, throwing a package on the table. Mr. Burton unwrapped it. "Why George!" she exclaimed. "A dog collar, of all things!" "Yes, and I gave $2.50 for it," Mr. Burton related. "Three dollars and a half!" echoed Mrs. Burton. "What on earth! I don't understand! You've always said you had no use for an earth for Junior's dog and you wished something would steal it!" "Yes, that's just it," Mr. Burton agreed. "With that collar on Junior's dog, one will be sure to steal it!"—Kansas City Star.

A Heroic Remedy

It was a dark night. Mrs. Burton observed the moon in such a position as to make driving dangerous in the uncertain light. A car was approaching from the corner which led to the closed garage. At that precise moment an express train thundered through. Too late, the driver of the car saw his danger. He tried to swerve, but a skid was the only result. With a crash he struck the last coach, and the car crumpled up on the track. Silence for a few minutes. Then a voice: "Well, it's cured my blinks, any way,"—and the driver crawled out of the wreck.

Models of the Firmament

A model of the heavens, which is remarkable in a great many ways, and which was constructed in Berlin some time ago, is about to make a tour of the world and will be shown in all the large cities. The spectators enter a large dome-shaped concrete building which is unlighted. Suddenly thousands of glittering stars appear in what seems to be the infinite sky. More marvelous, suns and planets begin their majestic march across the heavens. In a few moments intricate celestial motions are revealed so simple that you, who perhaps never have opened an astronomy book, can understand mysteries of the universe that puzzled scientists for centuries.
